Neuroradiology on Nevis: Essentials of Neuroradiology and Head & Neck Imaging
January 11-14, 2005

The Post-Graduate Medical School of the New York University School of Medicine is committed to improving patient care through continuing medical education.

Purpose Statement
There are many recent technological advances in neuro-imaging techniques which can be applied in current clinical practice. Maintenance of certification requires continued review of essential imaging techniques in all areas of radiology, including Neuroradiology and Head & Neck imaging.

Course Description
The goals of this course are to provide both a review of the fundamentals of Neuroradiology and Head & Neck Imaging, as well as to provide exposure to the newest techniques now being applied in the practice setting. To this end, each day includes designated lectures on Head & Neck basics and cutting-edge neuroimaging techniques, scheduled at the beginning and end of each day, respectively. The intervening sessions provide a broad, up-to-date review of those topics in Neuroradiology and Head & Neck Imaging important to daily practice.

Target Audience
This course is appropriate for general radiologists and neuroradiologists in a variety of practice settings, as well as for the radiology resident or fellow interested in a comprehensive review of Neuroradiology and Head & Neck Imaging.

Objectives
Upon completion of this course, attendees should be able to:

• Discuss the fundamentals of a current Neuroradiology practice
• More accurately interpret Head & Neck images as well as improve the preparation of the radiology report
• Illustrate the latest techniques in imaging of the central nervous system and Head & Neck, including diffusion/perfusion MRI, MRS, multidetector CT scanning, PET/CT and CTA
• Demonstrate how advanced imaging techniques are integrated into daily practice

Accreditation Statement
The NYU Post-Graduate Medical School is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The NYU Post-Graduate Medical School designates this educational activity for a maximum of 16.75 category I credits toward the AMA Physician’s Recognition Award. Each physician should claim only those hours that he/she spent in the activity.
