Target Audience

This course is designed for clinical radiologists in academic or private practice.

Statement of Need/Course Description

This course is designed to demonstrate how to accurately identify imaging findings that narrow the differential diagnosis for Musculoskeletal, Breast, Neuroradiology, PET and Thoracic Imaging in order to ensure optimal patient care. Maintenance of certification requires continued review of essential imaging techniques in all areas of radiology.

While addressing up-to-date imaging protocols in these areas, this course will cover topics including: imaging techniques and interpretations of femoroacetabular impingement, breast MR and breast cancer staging, current approach to pulmonary nodule assessment, imaging white matter diseases and interpretation of neurological and oncological PET/CT. The course will help radiologists and clinicians optimize imaging management in terms of appropriate selection of imaging parameters, sequences and exam selection, tailored to specific diagnoses or clinical conditions.

Learning Objectives

After participating in this activity, clinicians should be able to:

- Develop a strategy to incorporate the latest imaging techniques in musculoskeletal imaging such as hip arthrography into practice.
- Describe 3D Flair Imaging for the evaluation of demyelinating disease.

- Describe dose reduction techniques for CTPA in pregnancy and alternatives to CTPA in order to reduce radiation exposure.
- Describe the technical principals of digital breast tomosynthesis (DBT) for breast cancer screening.

Accreditation Statement

The NYU Post-Graduate Medical School is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Credit Designation Statement

The NYU Post-Graduate Medical School designates this live activity for a maximum of 20 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Self Assessment Modules (SAMs)

This program will offer 4.5 Self-Assessment Credits. Pending approval from the ABR

Disclosure Statement

The NYU Post-Graduate Medical School adheres to ACCME accreditation requirements and policies, including the Standards for Commercial Support regarding industry support of continuing medical education. In order to resolve any identified Conflicts of Interest, disclosure information is provided during the planning process to ensure resolution of any identified conflicts. Disclosure of faculty and commercial relationships as well as the discussion of unlabeled or unapproved use of any drug, device or procedure by the faculty will be fully noted at the meeting.

Special Needs

The Post-Graduate Medical School of the New York University School of Medicine, in compliance with the legal requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act, requests that any participant of this CME course who is in need of accommodation, submit written requests to our office at least one month prior to the course start date.

Meeting Registration

Online registration is fast and easy. Go to www.radcme.med.nyu.edu to register or download the registration form. $995 Full Fee; $795 reduced fee.

Target Audience

This course is designed for clinical radiologists in academic or private practice.

Statement of Need/Course Description

The practice of radiology is constantly evolving and it is essential to stay up-to-date with the latest imaging protocols (MRI, CT and US) and clinical interpretation. Clinical radiologists must understand and apply advanced imaging techniques in their practice for state-of-the art patient care. A wide range of topics will be covered in this program focusing on Abdominal, Neuroradiology, Thoracic, Breast and Musculoskeletal Imaging. Selected topics will include: imaging small cystic renal lesions, an introduction to fast MR imaging techniques of the brain, Breast MR/US, interstitial lung disease and imaging the post-operative knee. Additionally, CT radiation dosage techniques/protocols and MR contrast safety will be discussed throughout the program to illustrate how to optimize imaging and maintain diagnostic quality.

Learning Objectives

After participating in this activity, clinicians should be able to:

- Illustrate the importance of CT pulmonary angiography to evaluate pulmonary embolism, as well as recent advancements in CTPA focusing on quality improvements and radiation dose reduction.
- Describe the most up to date MR safety policies in abdominal imaging which include many areas of prior risk that have now decreased.

- Describe how dual-energy CT may provide added value for the diagnosis of musculoskeletal disease.
- Describe the latest guidelines for breast imaging which include Breast MRI BIRADS, US Screening and Digital Breast Tomosynthesis.

Accreditation Statement

The NYU Post-Graduate Medical School is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Credit Designation Statement

The NYU Post-Graduate Medical School designates this live activity for a maximum of 20 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
